PLAYERS BANGED ABOUT

Athletic Club Played With One or Two Substitutes and Was No Match for the Speedy Seminary Team.

In a rough and poorly played basket ball game, Goddard seminary defeated the Barre Athletic club, 49 to 14, at the Church street gymnasium last evening.

The feature of the whole game was the basket shooting of Moore of Goddard, who made 14 baskets, all of which were excellent shots from the floor.

RILEY PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

First Step in Effort to Learn Who Purloined Important Papers.

New York, Jan. 11.—Thomas P. Riley, special investigator of the interstate commerce commission, pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of having taken and published without authority a letter written by Attorney General Wickensham bearing on the sugar trust prosecutions.

Riley, who had passed Sunday in the Tombs, following his arrest on Saturday, was brought into court handcuffed to an Italian counterfeiter. When he was arraigned before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court a tentative plea of not guilty was entered for him by his counsel, Congressman Adams, who was allowed a week to change the plea if he so desired.

The letter alleged to have been taken by Riley subsequently appeared in the Cosmopolitan Magazine. With other documents that were printed in this connection, it is alleged to have been taken from the office of United States District Attorney Wise, in the federal building here. A rigid investigation and search for the purloiner of the documents resulted in Riley's apprehension. It was found that copies had been made of the documents and the originals returned to the letter files.

It was intimated yesterday that further steps would be taken to fix responsibility for the appearance of the purloined papers in print.

WHITE SLAVE INQUIRY ON.

Professor Jenks to Go Before Grand Jury.

New York, Jan. 11.—Synodized white slavery yesterday felt the sting of the legal lash. In the grand jury room District Attorney Whitman asked the investigators of the white slave traffic to find indictments against certain individuals, who he is satisfied are leaders in the business.

It is believed that the searching investigation undertaken by John D. Rockefeller Jr., as foreman of the special grand jury, has already proceeded far enough to show not only that an organized white slave traffic really exists, but that there are close relations between traffickers in women in the principal cities of the country.

Ownership of many illicit resorts in this city is being traced through title companies, and it is currently reported that one man or syndicate has been found to own several such places here. Outside investigation is under way to trace the affiliations of the reputed syndicate in other large centers of population, East and West. Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks of Cornell university and other men who have investigated phases of the traffic were summoned by Mr. Rockefeller and his associates to give their testimony yesterday.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST PEERS

Organized Effort to Break Up Meetings

SAME BODY OF ROWDIES

At Different Gatherings—The Times Bit-terly Scores Such Methods—Means Grave Disturbances, the Paper Declares.

London, Jan. 11.—The second Parliament of King Edward's reign came to an end yesterday. The ceremony of dissolution was brief and formal.

Four privy councillors attended at Buckingham palace, where at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the king signed the proclamation dissolving the present and summoning a new parliament to meet on February 16.

Within an hour the royal writs had been dispatched from the crown office to every constituency of the United Kingdom.

A. J. Balfour, the leader of the opposition in the Commons, will, after all, not enter the new Parliament without a contest.

At the last moment, the Liberals have nominated Sir Hugh Bell to oppose him for his seat for the city of London. Sir Hugh Bell has no chance of election, but the Liberal party considered that it might adversely influence their prospects if both Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain were returned unopposed.

Parliament will be formally dissolved to-day. It contains 364 Liberals, 55 Laborites, 89 Nationalists and 148 Unionists.

To secure a majority in the new Parliament, the Unionists must win at least 170 seats from their opponents.

A Unionist morning paper gives prominence to an interview with the former American consul-general at London, Robert J. Wynne, who while declining to express any opinion as to the English elections, commented upon the more favorable condition of the American working classes, as compared with the British.

He declared that there was no serious unemployment in the United States. On the contrary, work was waiting for all men willing and able to work.

This, he attributed to the protectionist policy, which had advanced American prosperity by a hundred years.

The Times pays a high tribute to the success of the remarkable campaign of the peers.

"An Englishman admires pluck wherever shown. Nobody denies that the peers played the game, and played it in a fashion astonishing to those who labeled them as either knaves or idiots," the Times says.

"For sheer ability, lucidity of thought, power of expression, cogency of reasoning, and temperateness of judgment, their speeches have an advantage over their leading opponents representing the House of Commons. Only in lack of investiture are they inferior. All the greater, therefore, is the indignation at the apparently organized attempts to break up every meeting addressed by them.

"Not a genuine audience spontaneously flows or whistles down a speaker or breaks up a meeting. The thing is got up and planned, if not paid for, by someone. The same gangs of men are observed at different meetings in different constituencies, night after night. As Lord Lansdowne said quietly Sunday night, there has never been an election in which such methods have been resorted to. He especially indicated as a stimulating cause of this disorder Lloyd George's inflammatory attempt to stir up class hatred. The rowdism at peers' meetings, generally by men imported into the constituency from outside, contrasts strangely with the entire absence of disorder at Radical meetings. If persisted in, grave disturbances are inevitable, for ugly temper is being engendered."

MYSTERY IN MOORE'S DEATH

Body Found in Resort in Chicago—Son of Leader of Rock Island Group of Financiers.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Nathaniel F. Moore, son of James Hobart Moore, leader of the Rock Island group of financiers, was found dead in a room at a south side resort under somewhat mysterious circumstances.

News of his death is said to have been suppressed by the police for 12 hours. He is said to have died Sunday afternoon and was not until early yesterday morning that the police gave out the news.

Coroner Hoffman personally took charge of an investigation.

According to the police Mr. Moore entered the house from a taxicab at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. He had been drinking and at 8 a. m. complained that he was ill. Dr. W. F. Murray is said to have attended him, and later Mr. Moore announced that he was feeling better.

Mr. Moore continued drinking, and late Sunday afternoon said he was feeling ill again. Dr. Murray was again called, and when he arrived, the police say, Moore was dying. Dr. Murray worked over him, but he died a short time later. The body was taken to the Moore home in a private ambulance.

"There are many circumstances in connection with the case that require explanation," said Coroner Hoffman yesterday. "Apparently, Mr. Moore died of heart disease, but I will not be satisfied until my doctors have made a post-mortem examination."

The inquest was opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Mr. Moore's apartments on Lake Shore drive.

Mr. Moore was known as a liberal spender and did not confine his spending to any section of the country. When he was 21 years old, in 1905, he was given a check for $100,000 by his father. He spent this lavishly, and many thousands more are said to have followed.

RUPTURE

Danger of Death. How to Avoid It?

In my last article, when I was announcing the coming shortly to Montpelier of Mr. A. Claverie, the distinguished specialist of Paris, I have said that rupture was a disease to be dreaded.

I have since received several letters inquiring if the disease was really as dangerous as I had stated.

I hasten to reply that rupture is one of the MOST FEARFUL infirmities known, although most of those who suffer from it are not aware of it.

Not to speak of the inconvenience of the pains it causes, the rupture, if it is not supported, or if it is wrongly supported—which is just as bad—is bound to INCREASE more or less regularly until it attains FEARFUL PROPORTIONS.

From that time the digestion is bad, the appetite decreases, the patient becomes weak, until he is unable to work and unable to move. It is old age when yet young, it means the shattering to pieces of all the strength of the patient.

And yet, there is something more terrible in sight; a scrotal rupture. It threatens the SMALL as well as the large ruptures.

All of a sudden, the ring which allows a passage to the rupture sharply tightens, and this without any apparent cause, and if at this moment the rupture is protruding outwards it is CHOKED, STRANGLING and cannot be pressed back; this means DEATH WITHIN 24 HOURS.

One may judge how urgent it is to take the most earnest precautions when one suffers from rupture.

But it is not by wearing ordinary trade trusses that one may be protected against such terrible danger, because these trusses are in most instances unable to support perfectly the rupture and to maintain the bowels in their proper place.

This is a serious and grave problem for science, and not traders, to solve. It is then only through scientific and perfected appliances that good results can be secured.

And for these reasons, I cannot too strongly recommend to my readers not to fail to go and see Mr. A. Claverie, the specialist of Paris, when he will visit our city.

His method and his apparatus have the endorsement of the highest medical authorities and have been adopted by nearly ONE MILLION SUFFERERS the world over.

INSURGENTS SCORE AGAIN

Senate Amends Ballinger-Pinchot Resolution

TO FIT VICTORY IN HOUSE

Discipline Is Defied—A Plan to Read the Urology Out of the Party Arouses Their Fighting Blood.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The victory of the House insurgent Republicans over Speaker Cannon, by coalition with the Democrats, in taking from the speaker the privilege of naming the House membership of the Ballinger-Pinchot joint investigating committee and lodging the selection in the House itself, was clinched yesterday in the Senate—which fell into line, rather than face a bitter and profitless wrangle. The Senate committee on public lands, having seen a great light—from the capture of the House insurgents—renewed and lost no time in amending its joint resolution so as to fit the insurgents' victory and take from Speaker Cannon the selection of the probers from the lower branch of Congress.

The Senate adopted the revised resolution as reported by the committee, after defeating an amendment proposed by Senator Newland, which would permit "any official or ex-official" whose conduct might be considered, to appear in person or by counsel.

It was said in the House that Representative Dwight of New York, Republican whip, had taken the names of the so-called insurgent Republican congressmen, who defeated Speaker Cannon in the inquiry committee matter, of the list of representatives to whom he regularly sends notices demanding their attendance at times of division.

Insurrection stalked afresh among the insurgents when they read the letter of the Republican congressional committee, published yesterday, declaring that the insurgents, because of their victory over Cannon, were without the pale so far as concerns support from the committee in the coming congressional election. Half a dozen leading members of the revolting faction, prior to the convening of the House, said they were unanimously emphatic in disapproval of what the congressional committee had said and done.

All were in favor of a meeting of the insurgents being called without further delay, and a reply formulated to the committee's letter. An unequivocal answer was necessary, they declared.

Congressman Hayes of California said: "The congressional committee cannot put me outside of the Republican party by any such declaration. They cannot impugn my party fealty. I have voted regularly and consistently for Republican policies and they cannot deny it. I intend to continue to do so. I voted for Cannon and for the tariff bill—although I may say I was not entirely suited in either particular. The insurgents will have a meeting within a day or two, and we will see about this thing. Two can play at this game, they will find."

Norris of Nebraska expressed himself as in favor of fighting back with all the vigor possible.

Gardner of Massachusetts, one of the chief insurgents, has written a letter to President Taft on the subject—the details of which have not been disclosed, but which is said to treat with the situation in unmistakable language.

Republican leaders in the House incline to the view that the Senate will abide by the verdict of the House in determining to choose its own members of the investigation committee, and are going ahead with plans for a caucus to be held Wednesday night to select three men.

The next important development is the Ballinger-Pinchot situation will be a statement from Gifford Pinchot. It is known he intends to issue such a statement, though the time is not yet fixed. It is expected to be a strong appeal for the supporters of conservation to go ahead. How far it will deal with the personal feud is not known.

Mr. Pinchot is overwhelmed with callers, who want to congratulate him, and telegrams are going to his home by the hundred. Many of these come from heads of conservation committees and societies and large numbers from western stockmen, graziers and farmers. His friends declare that the tone of these telegrams in many cases is astonishingly frank and such as would cause disquiet in administration quarters if known.

President Taft will begin work on his special message dealing with the conservation of natural resources some time this week. He had a consultation of half an hour or more on this subject yesterday morning with Secretary Ballinger. He also had a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson regarding the reorganization of the forestry bureau.

The new chief forester of the United States is hurrying here from the West to take up his duties.
